

What's more powerful than a dream?

A shared dream.

Imagine a worldwide community of students, connected through their goals for the future and empowered through their shared dreams. This is the intent behind DreamLine, a social network and app under development by The Dream Flag Project.

DreamLine will create a safe space for dreams in the online world of our children. The motivation, the connection, and the excitement of a shared dream is like nothing else. We want to bring that into every classroom in the country, and we want to start it with DreamLine. And we want you to help us get it going with a bang.

On Sunday, April 10 from 1 to 3 p.m. we will kick off our fundraising campaign for DreamLine in The Philadelphia School's Garage Performance Space at 25th and South Streets, Philadelphia. We want you to join in the fun for a cause that couldn't be more important -- the connection of our students' dreams.

From 1-2:00 enjoy live music and a complimentary lunch provided by The Metropolitan Bakery, Bacchus Catering, and Cafe V, along with other local vendors, make your own Dream Flag for Dream Flags--expressing your hopes for the global Dream Flag community--along with other hands-on Dream Flags activities, and peruse Dream Flags on display from around the region and the world. You may even go home with a "door prize" donated by some of our local Dream Flag fans.

At 2:00 Philadelphia City Councilwoman Blondell Reynolds Brown, a longtime supporter of The Dream Flag Project will lead off with a talk about why dreams matter in our schools and why The Dream Flag Project is bringing hope to Philly and the world. Also speaking will be Kerry Sautner, Vice President of Visitor Experience and Education at the National Constitution Center, and Jeff Harlan, co-founder and director of The Dream Flag Project.

At 2:30 watch our World Premier of the Dream Flags DreamLine Launch video, created by a Dream Flag supporter and video producer in California with voiceover sent from India, photos sent in from around the world, interviews with Dream Flag teachers across the Dream Flags community, and video of students talking about what it would be like to connect directly with those who share their dreams. It will be a magical two minutes and thirty seconds and will launch a global crowdsource campaign hosted on Indiegogo's Generosity platform to help us fund DreamLine and start connecting students everywhere in 2016-17. We'll all send our support, share with friends, and watch the DreamLine fly! And if it's a nice day, wander down to Schuylkill Park for a beautiful Sunday stroll afterward.

Hope to see you there as we work to bring dreams back into the classroom for a better world on April 10 at 1:00.

Please RSVP to jharlan@dreamflags.org by Friday, April 1 to ensure you are on the guest list. Due to the venue capacity (200 people max) admittance to the event is first come first served. Thanks.
